Land Acknowledgement

The University of Guelph resides on the ancestral lands of the Attawandaron people and the treaty lands and territory of the Mississaugas of the Credit. This gathering place where we work and learn is home to many past, present and future First Nations, Metis, and Inuit peoples. Our acknowledgement of the land is our declaration of our collective responsibility to this place and its peoples' histories, rights, and presence. In the context of this course, acknowledging the land entails an ongoing reflection on the ways in which present day issues of poverty, marginalization, exclusion, and violence can be traced to the historical process of land dispossession with its multiple and pervasive consequences. Acknowledging the land is also about unlearning, re-learning and envisioning ways in which we can become active agents of social transformation.

CALENDAR DESCRIPTION

The objective of the course is to provide an introduction to the study of international development as a contested and evolving effort to counteract global inequalities. Students will learn about the historical and political origins of the international development system, as well as the main development actors and institutions. The course will provide an introduction to foundational concepts within development studies, including poverty, inequality, human rights, foreign aid, and sustainable development.

DETAILED COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course introduces students to foundational concepts, key actors, and issues in the field of international development. We trace the trajectory of development as it intertwines with major structures of inequality (class, race, and gender) throughout several historical periods: the birth of capitalism; its world expansion through colonialism; liberal capitalism in the post-colonial period; the welfare and Import Substitution Industrialization stage; and finally, the neoliberal (global) era we currently find ourselves in.

Students are introduced to foundational approaches and theories of development, as well as key texts produced by the United Nations including the UN Declaration on Human Rights, the UN Development Program's definition of development, and human development indicators. In the globalization section of the course, we examine issues such as poverty, labour precarity and exploitation, land-grabbing, social-environmental conflicts, migration, human rights, and violence. The course places emphasis on four core themes: 1) the long-standing conflict between development as a hegemonic political and economic project versus development as an effort to counteract social and global inequalities and improve human well-being; 2) the historical and contemporary interrelatedness between the Global South and Global North; and 3) the importance of land in shaping how we relate to each other and our world; and 4) the power of the nation-state as an entity that controls legislative, ideological and violent means.

As part of this course's broader aim to globalize, diversify, indigenize, and decolonize education, efforts have been made to balance content and sources in a way that embraces perspectives, authors, issues, and approaches emerging from the Global South, indigenous peoples, marginalized and/or underrepresented groups. Students are strongly encouraged to contribute to this ongoing effort by sharing knowledge, experiences, and resources that can nourish our collective learning. The course is intended as an infrastructure of empowerment where learning, development, and social change are seen as mutually reinforcing. The classroom is a community of learners where students do not simply learn about development but rather become global citizens prepared to shape development processes by contributing to the elimination of various forms of oppression and constructing a socially and environmentally just world.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Conceptual Knowledge

1. Explain the relationship between the colonial expansion of capitalism and the Eurocentric framing of the development project during its early stages.
2. Apply the relational/dialectical analytical approach taught in this course to challenge the evolutionary perspective that presents development as a linear progression towards modernity and associates it with problems of ‘developing’ states only instead of the global system we are all part of.
3. Discuss the connections between colonialism, slavery, and racism on one hand and present-day development issues such as poverty, environmental injustice, and crime on the other.
4. Identify main types of actors within international development and describe their roles.
5. Apply development theories and the relational/dialectical analytical approach to explain present-day empirical examples as found in news articles and documentaries presented throughout the course.
6. Identify the main ways conventional development thinking has impacted ecological relations through the externalization of nature and discuss pathways and initiatives for an environmentally sustainable future.

Procedural knowledge / Skills

7. Synthesize key ideas, concepts, and arguments (effective reading and communication).
8. Recognize and articulate thematic connections across different sources of knowledge, including academic readings, documentaries, alternative news media, photographs and/or personal experiences.
9. Demonstrate ability to identify areas for debate and discussion by posing critical questions (critical thinking).

REQUIRED TEXTS

- McMichael, P. and Weber, H. (2021). Development and Social Change: A Global Perspective. 7th Edition. Los Angeles: Sage.
- Selection of academic articles, book chapters, news articles, videos, and documentaries available electronically through the Guelph McLaughlin Library Ares Course Reserve System. Ares is accessible through Courselink (under Content tab on the left-hand side).

Documentaries

Any documentaries and videos assigned form an integral part of the course material and students are expected to incorporate the knowledge gained from these into the assignments, test, and final exam.

COURSE FORMAT

The course consists of a lecture on Mon and Wed, followed by tutorials on the subsequent days. You are expected to attend your tutorial weekly. Tutorials will work on material that has been already covered in lecture.

The sequence of lecture and tutorials will look as follows:

1. Mon and Wed lecture
2. Tutorials follow in this order: Thu, Fri, Tue, and Wed morning. The Wed tutorials will be the last to work on the material covered in the previous week.

Lecture

- The Monday Lecture will take place in person.
- The Wednesday lecture will take place on Zoom via Courselink.
- Lectures explain as well as supplement the readings. One does not substitute for the other. In order to do well in the course, you need to attend lectures and take notes, or alternatively view the recording of the lecture. Every lecture session will be recorded and recordings will be available from Zoom through Courselink.
- You are strongly encouraged to attend regularly both the in-person and the Zoom session live, and only view the recording if you need to miss lecture or if you wish to review it.
- The pedagogical approach of this course rests on the idea that learning is a collective process and thus, the classroom should be a community of learners. Student participation during lectures is welcomed and greatly appreciated as it will help us maintain a sense of community.

Tutorials

Tutorials are offered for the purpose of enriching your learning experience and facilitating the understanding of readings and lecture content by offering a space for practicing certain skills and engaging in discussion. There will be 9 tutorials held in total. Given the ongoing pandemic, for the purpose of keeping everyone safe, you are required to attend a minimum of 5 tutorials. This means that you can take up to 4 sick days (i.e., miss tutorial and not be penalized). Tutorial attendance each week is strongly recommended, as long as you do not have any Covid symptoms and are feeling well.

Tutorial activities will include one graded and other ungraded activities:

- Discussion Question (DQ) presentations (graded);
- collective practice-reading and note-taking from assigned chapters;
- answering review/discussion questions assigned by the professor on readings and documentaries;
- answering any clarification or content-related student questions.

Note: you must attend the tutorial date for which you have been assigned to present your DQ. Please inform your TA as soon as possible if you need to miss your presentation date due to being sick, so that they can make alternative arrangements for you.

COMMUNICATION

There are two ways to communicate with the professor outside of lecture:

- (1) Guelph email,
- (2) Office hours (on Zoom).

Please do not expect to be able to speak to the professor just before lecture begins and/or right after lecture ends. This time is reserved for setting up the equipment (before lecture) and leaving in a timely manner before the next incoming class. In order to have your inquiries properly addressed, please use appropriate means available to you such as office hours and email. The professor will NOT be answering one-on-one questions right before or after lecture.

Please check the Announcements on Courselink as frequently as you can. This is the main way in which I will be reaching out to students to pass on any new information.

E-mail Communication

As per university regulations, all students are required to check their <uoguelph.ca> e-mail account regularly: e-mail is the official route of communication between the University and its students.

CLASS CONDUCT

Etiquette for Online Classes

- Keep your microphone muted unless you are invited to speak.
- Try to be ready to join the session at least 5 minutes early so that you can resolve any connectivity issues. Please note that the professor would not be able to deal with technical issues that you may be experiencing.
- Ensure there is no background noise in your environment when you are unmuted.
- If you have a question, please use the Raise Hand feature and speak when you are invited to do so. If you are unable to use audio due to constraints in your environment, you are welcome to type your question in the Chat.
- When the professor asks a question, please answer it by raising your hand and speaking, instead of typing the answer in the Chat, unless it is a Yes/No/thumbs-up type of question or unless you have constraints in your environment.
- If you would like to comment on something a fellow classmate has expressed, please use the Raise Hand feature and speak when invited to do so. The idea is to minimize the use of Chat and engage in verbal conversations, unless the professor instructs you to use it for a specific purpose.

How to Treat Each Other

We can all learn best when we feel safe, comfortable and welcome. Please know that your presence in lecture and tutorials is appreciated and your contributions are valued, regardless of whether you may have misunderstood something or given a 'wrong' answer. I ask that we all be respectful to each other. If a class member expresses a view that is based on lack of accurate information or one that reflects a distorted understanding of a given phenomenon, it is ok. The classroom is a place to learn. Let's take such moments as a learning opportunity. Feel free to politely correct them by sharing your knowledge. Please remember, that we never stop learning and that knowledge makes a difference only when you share it.

Preferred Names and Pronouns

Students in this class are invited to share their preferred name and pronouns, or not. If you are misnamed or misgendered, please correct the other person respectfully.

Inappropriate Behaviour

Please keep in mind that lecture Zoom sessions as well as Courselink are all part of our virtual classroom space. The same expectations, guidelines and regulations apply here as with in- person classes. Inappropriate behaviour, such as obscene or offensive language, promoting profit- driven products or services, discriminating against fellow students or TAs, intentionally disrupting class sessions, interrupting or speaking without being invited to do so, as well as all types of academic misconduct, will be subject to the appropriate penalty and/or disciplinary action.

EVALUATION

Please follow this typical weekly coursework routine:

1. Read the assigned material for the week and view any documentaries prior to attending lecture.
2. Attend lecture on Mon and Wed.
3. Write your learning reflection.
4. Submit your Learning Reflection by Friday 11:59pm.
5. Attend your tutorial (Thursday, Friday, Tue, or Wed).

Discussion Question – to be presented in tutorial	10	You will be randomly assigned a presentation date (Oct 27-Nov 23)	2, 3, 8, 9
Participation	5	ongoing
News Commentary or Documentary Commentary	15	Any day between Nov 2 and Nov 16	5, 8, 9
Test	20	Oct 17	1, 2, 4, 7
Final Exam	30	Dec 10 at 7pm	1, 2, 3, 5, 6, 7

Weekly Learning Reflections – 20%

Starting Sept 30th, every Friday, students are required to submit on Courselink by 11:59pm (or earlier) a learning reflection (approximately 1-page double-spaced Times New Roman, 12-point font, 1-inch margins all around) on the assigned readings for the current week. The readings would have been already discussed in the Monday & Wednesday lecture.

The reflection should consist of: (1) a synthesis of key ideas and concepts from all of the readings assigned for that week (i.e., the most important things you take away from the readings) and (2) connections that you find between the readings and any of the following: documentaries, earlier readings covered in the course, current news events, or personal experience.

Please refer to the Learning Reflections: Instructions, Evaluation Criteria and Learning Outcomes document in the “Instructions and Support” Module in Courselink for more detailed instructions.

Each reflection that you submit will receive 1%. You will be submitting 8 reflections for the entire course (worth 8%). The content and quality of these will be evaluated cumulatively at the end of the course and is worth an additional 12% (for a total of 20% of the course grade).

Discussion Question (DQ) 15% - check the date you have been assigned to present

Students are required to prepare a discussion question based on any one or more of the readings and/or documentary covered during the week they have been assigned. The DQ should be preceded by a brief (1-3 sentences) background (preamble) that situates us in terms of the topic/part of the readings on which it is based. The question itself may consist of more than one part. It should not have a right or wrong answer, not ask for clarification or factual information, but instead should invite us to think critically and creatively.

A short paragraph following the question should indicate: i) why you think this was an important and interesting question to ask; ii) how the question invites us to make use of what we have learned in the course so far; iii) what kind of debates/discussions you expect to take place in response to your question.

The entire assignment (preamble + DQ + reflection paragraph) should not exceed one page single-space. The DQs will be evaluated in terms of their clarity, creativity, and engagement with the course material as well as the quality of discussion they generate.

As a DQ author, you are required to:

- ✓ submit the assignment (preamble + DQ + reflection paragraph in one document) in the appropriate Dropbox folder on Courselink by Wed 11:59pm of the week you have been assigned to present (regardless of when your tutorial actually takes place).
- ✓ Post only the preamble + DQ portion of the assignment in the appropriate discussion section on Courselink by Wed 11:59pm of the week you have been assigned to present.
- ✓ Bring only the preamble + DQ portion of the assignment on a slip of paper (approximately 6 copies) to your tutorial and distribute to your group members.

Please refer to the Discussion Question: Instructions, Evaluation Criteria and Learning Outcomes document in the “Instructions and Support” Module in Courselink for more detailed instructions.

News Article Commentary OR Documentary Commentary 15% - due anytime between Nov 2 and 16

With this assignment you have the choice to either do a News Article Commentary OR a Documentary Commentary.

Option 1 News Article Commentary

Throughout the course you are expected to develop global awareness of development-related issues. For this assignment, you are asked to select a news media article that focuses on a development issue and analyze it, using what you have learned in the course through course readings and lecture material. The commentary should be approximately 3 pages double-space. Please refer to the News Article Commentary Instructions document in the “Instructions and Support” Module in Courselink for more detailed instructions.

Option 2 Documentary Commentary

For this assignment you are required to choose one of the assigned documentaries in the course and analyze it using what you have learned through course readings and lecture material. The commentary should be approximately 3 pages double-space. Please refer to the Documentary Commentary Instructions, Evaluation Criteria, and Learning Outcomes document in the “Instructions and Support” Module in Courselink for more detailed instructions.

Test 20% October 17 during lecture time online and Final Exam 30% during Examination Period online

Detailed information and guidelines will be provided in advance.

Participation

The participation grade will reflect students’ attendance, preparedness for class (e.g., having done the readings and watched the documentaries), frequency and quality of contributions during in-class and group discussions in tutorial. Additional participation points can be earned by attending and participating in the virtual lecture as well as completing any (otherwise ungraded) ‘mini-tasks’. Please see the Participation Evaluation Criteria in the “Instructions and Support” Module.

Assignment Submission on Courselink

- All assignments (NOT including the Test and Final Exam) are to be submitted using the Dropbox tool on Courselink.
- When submitting your assignments using the Dropbox tool, do not leave the page until your assignment has successfully uploaded. To verify that your submission was complete, you can view the submission history immediately after the upload to see which files uploaded successfully. The system will also email you a receipt. Save this email receipt as proof of submission.
- In order to avoid any last-minute computer problems, it is strongly recommended that you save your assignments to a cloud-based file storage, USB key or send to your email account, should something happen to your computer.
- It is your responsibility to submit your assignments on time. Be sure to check the technical requirements and make sure you have the proper computer, a supported browser, and reliable Internet access. Technical difficulties are not an excuse for lateness.
- Students are expected to maintain back-up copies of their work at all time in case of unforeseeable technical failures.

Policy on Disputing Assignment Grades

If you disagree with the grade you received, you must email your professor a letter within one week after work has been returned / grades posted, explaining why you believe you deserve a higher grade. In your letter, please take into consideration the answers that may have been taken up in class.

Policy on Missed / Late Work

*If you are registered with Accessibility Services, please advise the professor at the beginning of the course and all necessary accommodations will be made to ensure that you have a successful experience in the course.

Missed Learning Reflection

Not submitting a weekly reflection will lead to losing 1% and it will impact the Quality component of your Reflections grade. You have one late pass which entitles you to submit one late reflection by Sunday 11:59pm of the week it is due. Please submit on Dropbox and then email your TA to let them know you are using your late pass.

Discussion Question

Given that this assignment involves group interaction, you must advise as much in advance as possible if you are unable to present your question during the week you have been assigned. Accommodations (being moved to a different week) would be made only for health reasons.

News Article Commentary or Documentary Commentary

Late commentaries will receive 5% of late penalty per day for up to six days. Work more than 6 days late will not be accepted, unless previous accommodation arrangements have been made.

Test

Accommodations (writing a deferred test) would be made only for valid reasons.

Drop Date

Courses that are one semester long must be dropped by the end of the last day of classes; two-semester courses must be dropped by the last day of classes in the second semester. The regulations and procedures for Dropping Courses are available in the Undergraduate Calendar.

ACCESSIBILITY AND ACCOMMODATIONS

The University promotes the full participation of students who experience disabilities in their academic programs. To that end, the provision of academic accommodation is a shared responsibility between the University and the student. When accommodations are needed, the student is required to first register with Student Accessibility Services (SAS). Documentation to substantiate the existence of a disability is required, however, interim accommodations may be possible while that process is underway.

Accommodations are available for both permanent and temporary disabilities. Use of the SAS Exam Centre requires students to make a booking at least 7 days in advance, and no later than November 1 (fall), March 1 (winter) or July 1 (summer). Similarly, new or changed accommodations for online quizzes, tests and exams must be approved at least a week ahead of time. Students requiring service or accommodation, whether due to an identified, ongoing disability or a short-term disability should contact Accessibility Services as soon as possible. For more information, contact Accessibility Services at 519-824-4120 ext. 56208, email Accessibility Services accessibility@uoguelph.ca or visit www.uoguelph.ca/sas

HEALTH

When You Cannot Meet a Course Requirement

When you find yourself unable to meet an in-course requirement because of illness or compassionate reasons, please advise the course instructor (or designated person, such as a teaching assistant) in writing, with your name, id#, and e-mail contact. See the undergraduate calendar for information on regulations and procedures for Academic Consideration.

Medical Notes

Medical notes will not normally be required for singular instances of academic consideration, although students may be required to provide supporting documentation for multiple missed assessments or when involving a large part of a course (e.g., final exam or major assignment).

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

The University of Guelph is committed to upholding the highest standards of academic integrity and it is the responsibility of all members of the University community – faculty, staff, and students – to be aware of what constitutes academic misconduct and to do as much as possible to prevent academic offences from occurring. University of Guelph students have the responsibility to abide by the University's policy on academic misconduct regardless of their location of study; faculty, staff and students have the responsibility of supporting an environment that discourages misconduct. Students need to remain aware that instructors have access to and the right to use electronic and other means of detection.

Whether or not a student intended to commit academic misconduct is not relevant for a finding of guilt. Hurried or careless submission of assignments does not excuse students from responsibility for verifying the academic integrity of their work before submitting it. Students who are in any doubt as to whether an action on their part could be construed as an academic offence should consult with a faculty member or faculty advisor. The Academic Misconduct Policy is detailed in the Undergraduate Calendar.
